

Teaching Opportunities

Are you interested in enhancing your continuing professional development through co-teaching in an academic setting?

The North London Social Work Teaching Partnership is recruiting experienced registered social workers to teach alongside academics at Middlesex University. We are looking for practitioners to share their expertise, knowledge and skills with students on aspects of both the BA and MA Social Work programmes.

Fantastic
CPD opportunity

Over 20 expert practitioners across Partnership organisations contributed to students' learning last year, supporting a dynamic and contemporary approach to social work education.

It was so rewarding teaching the students and the academics were really supportive. I would highly recommend other practitioners to get involved."

— Practitioner

Input from front line social workers was so valuable to our learning. It gave us a unique insight into their practice, which really aided our understanding."

— Student

You will work with an academic to develop and co-deliver seminars, workshops, and lectures with a strong practice focus. You can expect to undertake 1-2 hours of preparation for every hour of co-teaching and attending the agreed session(s).

These opportunities will help to cultivate a learning culture in your organisation and enhance your own continuing professional development and experience. You will need to be released from work to allow you to participate and no additional payment is allocated.

Your specialist knowledge is needed in the following subject areas:

- Life course and early childhood development
- Systemic / psychoanalytic / relationship based approaches
- Safeguarding in children's or adults social work
- Youth offending / working with gangs
- Child sexual exploitation
- Disability
- Care planning / personalisation
- Risk assessment
- CAMHS and adult mental health
- Legislation and its application in front line practice
- Care of older people
- Housing, welfare and benefits
- Lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and intersex (LGBTQI+) equality

We also encourage you to apply if you have other areas of expertise to offer.

How do I get involved?

Follow the link below to complete the online application form and outline your areas of special interest. You will need to obtain your line manager's approval before submitting your application and you will be asked to provide your line manager's name and email address on the application form.

All applications will be reviewed by an academic panel and are subject to endorsement by your senior management.

Click here to complete the online application form

Teaching & learning in higher education workshop

A workshop will be provided on 19 July 2018 from 9:30am-12:30pm at Middlesex University to support your involvement with teaching and learning in the university setting and we encourage all those who apply to attend. Click here to book your place on the workshop.

Applications will be reviewed by an academic panel and submitting an application does not ensure that an applicant will be offered a co-teaching opportunity.

If you have any queries, please email us.

This opportunity is delivered as part of the North London Social Work Teaching Partnership, which comprises of Barnet, Camden, Enfield, Hackney, Haringey and Islington Councils, the charity Norwood and Middlesex University. Funded by the Department for Education.

Apply
now